1. Executive Summary

The English Department's program review has revealed an interesting paradox. We take very seriously our impact on the campus community; however, we realize that the importance of writing as a crucial component to college success needs to be better articulated and supported by all departments. In discussing our commendations and recommendations, we see a strong need to stretch further into the campus community and engage with our colleagues. We have learned that we should form stronger connections across disciplines to promote campus wide competency in writing and critical thinking skills. We identified the need for an associate degree in English and certificates of achievement in writing competency and literature and have completed the approval process with the curriculum committee.

We intend to:
Monitor and review the new assessment strategies in English 30, 40, 100 and 101.
Create assessment strategies for the critical thinking courses (English 103 and 104) as well as for our literature courses. Pursue IGETC approval for English 102 in the humanities area.

Create a writing center that will support students as they develop as writers in our discipline as well as aid them in their writing for other courses across the curriculum.

Hire faculty to increase student success.
Complete a review of the AA in Language Arts by the end of 2012.

9. Program Description / Mission

The English Program provides a full range of writing and literature classes from placement to graduation and/or transfer. Our courses include three levels of developmental classes for those who place below our transfer level of English, many courses that focus on college composition and critical thinking, and a variety of literature courses. We serve the entire student body by preparing students to write successfully in an academic and/or professional environment. In addition, the English Department strives to increase appreciation of literature.

10. Program Goals and Objectives

The goals of the English Department are:
a) to provide courses and services that help students gain writing competency.
b) to provide core courses and electives that are appropriate for graduation and/or transfer requirements.
c) to strengthen critical thinking skills.
d) to encourage an appreciation of literature.

12. Degree/Certificate Review

As part of this program review process, English faculty have developed an AA in English Literature and two skill awards, one in writing competency and one in literature. We will review this degree and these skill awards in the next program review cycle.

English courses are included in the AA in Language Arts. This broad degree needs review by faculty in the Language Arts division.

13. Evaluation Criteria - Mission

The English curriculum offers courses from the pre-collegiate through the college sophomore levels to provide students with a comprehensive foundation for writing, textual analysis, and critical thinking which will help them to succeed in college level courses, as well as enter a satisfying occupation or profession. The English program reflects the diversity found in the college population and fosters a strong liberal arts background through instruction in literature and its cultural contexts, including history, philosophy, politics, and religion. Courses are sequenced appropriately to lead to the A.A. degree or to university transfer: English 30, 40, 100 are demonstrably effective prerequisites for English 101 and 101H, and these courses are in turn demonstrably effective prerequisites for the advanced writing courses (102, 103, 103H, 104).

Commendations

a) Fulfills the objectives of and generates outcomes in line with the mission of Citrus College.
b) Serves a culturally diverse student population.

16. Evaluation Criteria - Feasibility

The English Department works diligently to offer schedules that fit the varying needs of a diverse student body. The department offers courses during the day and evenings as well as tradtional semester courses, fast-track courses, learning communities, and distant education courses. Campus equipment and library resources are adequate and meet the needs of the program. Improvements of technology and the development of the College Success Center have improved students' progess through the department's course sequence. Most courses are transferable to UC and CSU systems. Courses within the program are instructed by full-time and adjunct faculty members who possess an academic background that meets the minimum qualifications to teach in the discipline.

Commendations
a) Participated in Senate discussions to explore the possibility of creating a liaison position for a counselor who would paritcipate in department meetings.
b) Invites students to use resources for student success and/or to inform them of transfer requirements and deadlines.
c) Collaborates with Counseling during personal statement workshops aimed at assisting applicants applying to UC and CSU campuses.
d) Serves on the Transfer Task Force.
e) Attends and provides input during Flex Day activities sponsored by the Counseling Department.
f) Uses the smart panel (computer, dvd, document projector), Blackboard, or equivalent technology. The college has established a College Success Center with support staff, writing clinics, directed learning activities, and computer programs.
g) High fill rates suggest that it is difficult for a full-time prepared student to complete the program in two years. Especially interesting is that raising the course offerings from seventeen to twenty courses (Fall 2003 to fall 2008) does not significantly drop our fill rate, only by $5 \%$. Most fill rates are in the midnineties in the traditional semester, and the lowest were during our double session summer school offerings. After moving to one summer and one winter session in 2008, our fill rates increased $12 \%$ from the previous year. (See recommendation one.)
h) Consults with the Articulation Officer when revising developing courses to make the courses transferable to UC and CSU systems when appropriate.
i) Doubled the amount of revenue brought to the campus since 03/04; however, expenses have not grown significantly. (See recommendation one.)
j) Offers courses at a variety of times. The English Program has a significant number of faculty involved in distance education courses, learning communities and FastTrackcourses.

Previous Recommendations Completed

a) Consult with the libraryfaculty yearly as to which databases to maintain and purchases of both print and online materials to aid in our students' research. The faculty utilize Turnitin.com.
b) Hired instructional aides with a minimum BA who assist students in the College Success Center and are present every hour the lab is open. Lab Supervisors have minimum qualifications in English, Reading, or ESL. The College Success Center is a dynamic learning environment. Staff members check each student's progess and offer suggestions for supplemental learning activities. Directed Learning Activites and Writing Clinics are also available to assist students. Specific learning paths are being developed to tailor each student's progress to his or her instructor's course objectives and class schedule.
c) Ensured that volume and closed captioning work from smart panels in Language Arts rooms.
