

Newly Revised Strong Interest Inventory and MBTI® Combined Career Report

What major would be a good fit for you? What career fields could you enter with that degree? What kinds of jobs or campus activities would support your interests?

The report is packed full of information about your career interests and how you can start moving towards them while still in college!

The newly revised Strong and MBTI® Career Report provides a complete career development picture based on a combined interpretation of interests and personality. This highly personalized information can help you identify college courses, jobs/internships, and extracurricular activities that will allow you to better express your unique interests and personal style. If you discover your true interests, you can better identify, understand, and often expand your career options.

More than just jobs...

You will also learn about your preferred work style, learning environment, your leadership style and risk taking/adventure score. These scales can help you decide what kinds of classes to take. Perhaps you would do better and enjoy hands-on study, such as lab work. Maybe, you might be one who learns best by working on group projects or in study groups. Then again you may learn best by studying on your own. Here is way to find out what is better for you. It's a good way to avoid wasting time through trial and error.

What's a good major for me?

It's a common question. While its true most professions include people from a wide variety of educational backgrounds, why not pick a major that matches your interests? This is particularly useful for those who can't decide because "everything interests me." If you're such a student, the Strong assessment can help you narrow your focus. Some students will benefit from combining their interests from several fields into a program just for them. Again, your report will give you great insights into which combination might be best for you.

Which school jobs or activities are right for me?

While in college, many students are involved in extracurricular activities or work. Are some more likely to be suited to you than others? Absolutely. The Strong assessment tool will give you more clarity about which activities or work-study programs might be for you. For example, would student government, athletics, being a teaching assistant, or a computer users club be good for you? Take the Strong and find out.
