On behalf of the Measure G Citizens Oversight Committee, it is my pleasure to present the 14th edition of our annual report. Over the last 12 months, my fellow committee members and I have continued to monitor the great work being accomplished at Citrus College through funds made available by voters of our communities through the Measure G general obligation bond.

The purpose of this report is to highlight, on behalf of the citizens, any findings or concerns of the committee, and to assure the citizens that their tax dollars are being spent as intended by the ballot measure approved by the voters. We are pleased to report that our Measure G Citizens Oversight Committee had no concerns with the Citrus Community College District Measure G general obligation bond program.

For the fiscal year that ended June 30, 2018, the independent certified public accounting firm Vavrinek, Trine, Day & Co., LLP, examined the district’s compliance with the requirements of the Proposition 39 Measure G General Obligation Bond Program, as specified in section 1(b)(3)(c) of Article XIIIA of the California Constitution. The audit concluded that the district’s Measure G financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Citrus Community College District Measure G General Obligation Bond Construction Fund.

Citrus College’s leadership and staff are to be commended for their conscientious management of Measure G dollars. At the same time, the support of local citizens should also be applauded. This continued collaboration will ensure that Citrus College remains a premier institution of higher education for years to come.

Sincerely,

Mr. James Sinnema
Committee Chair

Celebrating a Community of Success

State-of-the-art facilities, such as the new Hayden Hall, now house some of Citrus College’s most successful and rapidly expanding programs. As Citrus College continues to improve its infrastructure, the opportunities for greater student success will undoubtedly increase. A quick review of the following Measure G projects offers a glimpse into the future of your community’s college.

Message from the Superintendent/President

Nearly 15 years have passed since the voters of the Citrus Community College District approved the Measure G general obligation bond, forever changing Citrus College. Measure G dollars have spurred growth and development that have resulted in increased opportunities for students, a beautiful campus featuring state-of-the-art facilities and energy cost savings. On behalf of the entire college community, I express my sincere gratitude to you, the members of our communities, for making this progress possible.

I would also like to acknowledge those individuals who have served as members of the Measure G Citizens Oversight Committee. For over a decade, residents representing local organizations, the community at large, the college’s Foundation and the Citrus College student body have volunteered to serve up to two consecutive two-year terms on the committee. This year, the committee welcomed a new member, Mr. Wes Menard, and a new student representative, Ms. Makayla Pedroza. They also said goodbye to Ms. Shauna Pierce, who completed her term. Each volunteer – whether a new, existing or previous committee member – has represented the voice of the taxpayer, and their service is greatly appreciated.

While this report provides a glimpse of many of the significant projects that have been made possible by Measure G, I invite you to visit Citrus College to experience the transformation for yourself. From the beautiful new Visual Arts Building and the recently modernized Hayden Hall to the ongoing remodeling of the Ross L. Handy Campus Center, the college’s physical landscape has changed. It is important to note, however, that the lives and destinies of thousands of students have also been changed. The faculty, staff and students of Citrus College are profoundly grateful for your investment in the future of our community.

Sincerely,

Geraldine M. Perri, Ph.D.
